Areas of Practice

Real Estate Law

Patrick Tierney focuses his practice on helping real estate developers, investors, owners, lenders, and tenants structure, negotiate, and close complex real estate transactions in New York and throughout the United States, including joint ventures, development and ground leasing, acquisitions, and dispositions, 1031 exchanges, leasing (representing office, retail, and warehouse/industrial landlords and tenants), financing (representing borrowers and lenders), and other commercial real estate transactions.

Patrick has over 16 years of experience across all asset classes throughout the United States, including office buildings, retail, raw land/ground-up developments, hotels, restaurants, residential and mixed-use buildings, complexes, shopping centers, ski resorts, and various portfolios. Combining this vast experience with his business roots, he provides practical, creative, thorough, and compassionate guidance to his clients.

A business-minded attorney, Patrick grew up in a small business, studied business, worked at a startup, and is an active angel investor, advisor, and mentor. He deeply understands his clients' pain points and actively works to connect his entrepreneur and venture clients with appropriate lawyers within the firm. Patrick's style of practice is to be his clients' trusted advisor, confidant, and advocate. He deeply values treating his clients and counterparts as humans and with dignity, patience, and respect. As a result, he gets complicated deals done with less stress and more joy.

Patrick received a bachelor's degree from George Mason University in Management with high distinction and earned his J.D., magna cum laude, from George Mason University School of Law. He also attended the University of Oxford for their Honors Program.

Continued

Before joining SGR, he worked for over a decade in the highly-rated real estate departments of international AmLaw 100 law firms. Then for several years, he thrived in a preeminent real estate boutique in New York City.

In a former life, he was a Division I soccer player and is a member of his high school's athletic hall of fame. He's an avid (obsessive?) reader across a broad range of subjects and is deeply passionate about having an impact in the world and leveling the playing field for all people.
